

A hard disk has at most four primary/extended partitions, so the partition information table in the first sector has at most four records.

